

Elected president of virtual assistants group

Angela L. Allen of Dunnville has been elected president of the International Virtual Assistants Association (IVAA), following 18 months of service as vice president for the organization.

The IVAA (www.IVAA.org) is an international non-profit professional trade association for virtual assistants, dedicated to the professional development of independent entrepreneurs who offer creative, technical, and administrative support services. The organization helps members grow professionally to meet the challenges of providing Internet-based services.

“The tremendous growth experienced by the virtual assistant industry creates significant opportunities for those interested in offering or utilizing VA services,” said Allen. “The VA industry appeals to companies, both large and small, that choose not to hire full-time staff in particular areas of expertise.”

Allen is a 1984 graduate of Danville High and graduated from Centre College in 1993. She and her family live on a small farm in Casey County where she operates her business.
